

STEPHENSON IS LEADING RACE

This Appears To Be The Opinion Of Political Experts Watching Senatorial Contest.

DAVIDSON TAKING NO PART AS YET

Governor Remains Inactive While The Politicians Are Fighting For Preference For Their Candidates—Strange-Trotman Contest.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Aug. 14.—While senatorial, congressional and legislative candidates are touring their home and spending good money hand over fist in these expensive primary campaigns Governor Davidson is revealing close to nature, complacent in the assurance of an unopposed re-nomination for the office of chief executive on the republican ticket.

Two weeks ago he went up to the Green Bay country with the state park commission and after the members of that board returned the governor joined a distinguished party of Wisconsin citizens as guests of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson of Marinette and they are having an enjoyable trip on the senator's fine pleasure yacht, Bonita.

Mr. Stephenson annually entertains a jolly crowd of notables in this manner and usually manages to have the governor of the state as one of his guests. Ex-Governor George W. Peck, a "usual" member of the party and it is said that one of the rules of the outing is that no one must mention politics or attempt to make political deals.

A member of Senator Stephenson's party is ordered to enjoy the trip, and then he is at liberty to do as he pleases politically. Senator La Follette was a guest on several of these annual outings.

A feature of the situation which is particularly pleasant to the governor is that he is away from the working politicians and is able to allow the critical fighting time to go by without offending any friends by refusing to take part in the primary election scramble.

After the nominations are made, the governor will be active in the work of framing the platform and preparing for the campaign for carrying the state for Traft and electing the state ticket and a large majority of the congressmen and members of the legislature.

While Governor Davidson is taking things easy other candidates are not so untroubled. The senatorial fight has become more bitter and more intense than ever. The campaign managers of the four candidates are using every advantage possible to gain the nomination of their candidate.

McGovern's campaign of speaking throughout the state appears to have been badly managed. His advance agent engaged hands in many localities but failed to advertise the meetings properly, hence the small attendance. The candidate's statement that La Follette was with him and that he endorsed his candidacy has made considerable trouble for McGovern's managers.

McGovern has made a gallant fight against serious odds. In the first place there have been defections from his ranks of men he had counted on. Congressman Cooper had practically promised him his support and promised to introduce him at the Lincoln Club meeting in Racine but backed out at the last minute.

Hutton's managers also claim that Cooper had promised his support to their candidate and this adds to the perplexing situation as Cooper now says he is a friend to all of the candidates and refuses to take any part in the contest whatsoever. The same conditions exist in other districts where McGovern and Hutton clash.

The ultra La Follette men appear to be divided between the two. It is said that John Hanna, La Follette's private secretary, has been spirited out of the state because he became a Hutton worker and was communicating the senator's plan of non-interference openly.

Cook's campaign is receiving serious blows right in his own home district. The campaign of John Strange for lieutenant governor is hurting the Neenan man's chances. Strange refuses to withdraw, or if the truth be known Strange can not withdraw having been ordered to run so that the La Follette faction can have a rallying standard to keep their organization alive.

Cook has made no definite statements as to his beliefs and this is said to hurt his chances. Then, too, he has been relying upon the former conservative vote and finds this is lacking. This is particularly true in the southern portion of the state, in Rock and Walworth counties where Stephenson has the edge. Even in Winnebago county the sentiment is strongly against his candidacy and he has not easy sailing.

Another element that is said to be a drawback to his campaign was the appeal of his managers to the old soldier vote of the state. Cook's record as a soldier appears to have been only after all the fighting was over and the old veterans resent his claims to honor on this score. They also resent his appeal to this vote.

The Stephenson campaign has run into many rocks but has thus far managed to weather the storm of abuse that has been heaped upon their candidate by the ultra organs. No claim is made to the support of the senator who is known to be bitterly opposed to Stephenson's re-nomination. His record as a citizen of the state, his service as a member of congress, his position in national politics and his recent stand on questions of national politics are being used to advantage.

It is said today that Stephenson may make a tour of the state in his own behalf before the primaries. He is due back in Marinette on Sunday and it is said he will visit several cities between that date and the primary day. His support is said to come heavily from both the La Follette and conservative republicans and to be strongest along the lake shore counties and in the southern portion of the state.

Hutton's campaign thus far has been one of weakness. He has used the press of the state to forward his campaign and in many districts has used the report he is the choice of La Follette for the office to decided advantage. His attitude during the years of reform in the state is being heralded abroad but it is found that it is the same brand as that of McGovern and the two claims are conflicting.

When the campaign is summed up it apparently lies between Stephenson and the field. Stephenson is the most feared of any of the candidates by his opponents and his campaign is watched more closely than any of the others. All are apparently afraid of the McGovern campaign with good reason.

The Strange-Trotman contest is the one of most vital interest to the La Follette interests. The necessity of keeping the La Follette organization together has become apparent. The prospect of Stephenson winning out the nomination for the senate and the possibility of another candidate coming up against La Follette two years from now has made it imperative to keep the old organization alive.

The reformers are split on their choice for the senate and if there was no contest on which they could unite they would become disintegrated and the work of the past would have been for naught, hence John Strange was hustled into the field to command the support of the loyal followers. Strange did not want the place and Trotman did. The fight will be a hot one and bitter to the extreme.

The congressional fight is also demanding attention. Cooper and Nohrn are battling it out in the first district and Nelson and Russell in the second. Both the congressmen are of the ultra type and are opposed by men more conservative. Coleman and Stafford are fighting it out in Milwaukee and even in the third a ghostly fight is on. In the fifth minor seeks to out Kinkerman who two years ago defeated him for the office and in the eleventh Johnson and Leeson are having a battle royal.

While Davidson is enjoying his trip down the Escanaba with Senator Stephenson the politicians of the state are fighting the battle of their lives. No one believes that Bryan can carry the state and the democratic campaign is lost sight of in the furious contests for preference that are being waged in the republican camps.

ELECTIONS NOW ON IN SASKATCHEWAN

Liberals and Conservatives Close one of the Bitterest Campaigns in History.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Regina, Sask., Aug. 14.—Following the dissolution of the legislature three weeks ago, an election for a new assembly is being held today throughout the Province of Saskatchewan. Premier Scott is confident of a liberal victory. His party has conducted an energetic campaign on a platform that advocates among other things a rapid extension of railways, the development of the telephone service, improvements in the system of public instruction, and the creation of rural municipalities.

The present election is the second contest since Saskatchewan was erected into a province on September 1, 1905. The result of the first election held on December 13, 1905, was as follows: Liberals (under the leadership of the present Premier, Hon. Walter Scott), 16; Conservatives and Independents, 8.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 14.—The election today in Saskatchewan is regarded as the first move in one of the bitterest political struggles Canada has ever seen. During last session of Parliament the Conservatives carried out a most determined campaign against the Laurier government, based on alleged scandals centered about land deals and timber deals, so called, in the western country of which Saskatchewan forms a part. It is generally believed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier selected the western province, out of which so many scandals have come, to test public opinion in the west. He evidently figures that he will be successful. Wrestling such a result under such circumstances, he will be able to proclaim to the people of Canada that the liberal party has been vindicated in the storm center of scandal.

On the other hand, should the liberal most defeat in Saskatchewan, it probably would forecast a similar result, with the overthrow of the Laurier administration, in the general elections to come this fall.

The liberals now are in power in Saskatchewan. In the legislature, which dissolved last month they had a decisive majority. Their organization is complete and far-reaching and they are possessed of ample funds. The opposition to Premier Scott is led by E. W. G. Haultain, the old territorial premier.

FAST SCULLERS NOW MEET IN THE EAST

Thirty Sixth Annual Regatta of National Association Began Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 14.—The thirty-sixth annual regatta of the national association of Amateur Oarsmen, several elimination events of which were on the programme for this afternoon, promises to be one of the most notable events of aquatic sports ever held in America. The entrants include crack rowing crews and individual scullers from Philadelphia, Troy, Worcester, New York and other cities of the east, from Toronto and Halifax, and from points as far west as St. Paul. The races take place over the new "million dollar race course" on the Connecticut river, said to be one of the finest to be found in any part of the world.

The finals and the long-looked-for championships will take place tomorrow. The event in which the greatest interest is manifested is the single sculler championship race. This event will bring together Harry S. Bennett of Springfield, the present champion; Frank H. Geer of Boston, the former champion, and Durand Miller of New York, winner of the association singles last year at Philadelphia.

Another event on the programme that is attracting attention is the association singles. Alex. Warnock of Springfield, is the favorite, being intermediate champion, but it is predicted that he will have a formidable opponent in Robert H. Young of New Orleans, who is rated as fast enough to get into the championship event. This year Young defeated both Ferdinand Dejeu and H. H. Shears, former champions of the South.

Springfield is thronged with devotees of aquatic sports from many parts of the United States and Canada, come to witness the regatta. This morning scores of visitors gathered at the boat houses and along the river banks to witness the final splash of the oarsmen and to discuss the chances of the different aspirants for championship honors as well as the probabilities of some of the holders retaining their titles.

MARKSMEN MEET AT CAMP PERRY TODAY

Rifle Tournament Beginning Today Will Last Rest of the Month.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Camp Perry, Port Clinton, O., Aug. 14.—The rifle tournament which began on the ranges here today and will continue until the end of this month is by far the largest and most notable affair of its kind that ever has taken place in America. The meet comprises the sixth annual matches of the national board for the promotion of rifle practice and the twenty-sixth annual matches of the National Rifle Association. More than one thousand picked sharpshooters representing the National Guard of nearly every state and all branches of the regular service are to compete for the national team and individual rifle honors.

The principal event on the programme is the national team match, for which congress has provided the trophy. It is open to teams of the army, navy, marine corps, military and naval academies and the National Guard of the various states and territories.

Next in importance are the national rifle and the national pistol matches, in both of which there are a number of cash and medal prizes. Of the National Rifle Association matches the most important is the regimental team match, in which several scores of teams are entered. The first prize in this match is a handsome championship trophy, valued at $500. It has been won twice by the Sixth Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, and if this team is again victorious, the trophy becomes its permanent property.

PROSPERITY CONGRESS IS IN SESSION IN NEW YORK

Commercial Travelers' Interstate Meeting Will Try To Silence The Knockers.

New York, August 14.—"Smile, and Keep Smiling" was the slogan of the several hundred "knockers" who gathered in the assembly room of the Metropolitan Life Insurance building this afternoon and took part in the formal opening of the Commercial Travelers' Interstate Prosperity Congress. The Congress will remain in session over tomorrow. The restoration of prosperity is the dominant idea of the gathering, but other things will not be neglected. The commercial travelers of the country were responsible for the inception of the congress, but the associations of business men throughout the country and the public generally has taken up the idea with enthusiasm. The promoters of the movement believe that if the "knockers" and the "crackpots" can be silenced there will be a speedy return of good times. Plans to this end are to be thoroughly discussed by the congress and steps taken for concerted action on the part of the business men of the country to restore public confidence.

Those in attendance at the opening of the congress included the national officers and many leading members of the United Commercial Travelers' and the Travelers' Protective Association, the two great organizations of traveling men in this country.

Controller Herman A. Metz, as president of the congress, called the gathering to order, and introduced Henry Clews as the principal speaker of the afternoon. Mr. Clews, who is recognized as one of the foremost authorities on the subject of the financial and industrial condition of the country spoke interestingly of the conditions as they exist at present and the outlook for the future. Another prominent speaker at the initial session was E. C. Shumway of St. Louis. Several of the national officers of the traveling men's association also were heard. Following the formal addresses there was an open discussion of ways and means for "booming prosperity."

Tomorrow Controller Metz will take the officers and guests of the congress for a sail around Manhattan and to Coney Island, while the delegates will take sight-seeing autos to Manhattan Beach. The congress will wind up tomorrow evening with a banquet at the Victoria hotel, at which Mayor Rose of Milwaukee, Lewis Nixon and other men of prominence are scheduled to speak.

GYPSY MULE HIT BY AN INTERURBAN CAR

Near the Substation Last Evening—Tom Blimbo of Brazil Asks for Damages from Company.

One of the mules belonging to the gypsy caravan which passed through the city yesterday morning, was struck by a southbound interurban car near the substation about half-past ten o'clock last evening, and cut to pieces. The beast was tied behind one of the wagons and broke the rope and jumped onto the track just as the car was passing. Tom Blimbo of Brazil, one of the members of the tribe, came to Janesville this morning to seek satisfaction from the interurban company. He claimed the animal cost him $50. The company has been advised by its lawyer that it is not liable. Mr. Blimbo lingered in the city about four hours before returning to the camp. He will probably make a call on the officials at Rockford. Report reached the city this morning that a horse had been stolen during the night from the Brown farm, in the vicinity of the substation, and that the gypsies were suspected of knowing something about its disappearance.

JANESVILLE TO HAVE PURE MILK CRUSADE

Health Officer Will Offer Ordinance at Next Meeting of the Council.

As a result of complaints made to the city health officer, Janesville will probably have a pure milk crusade. A number of complaints have been made both as to the quality of the milk which is sold in the city and also as to its cleanliness. An ordinance to be presented at the next council meeting will ask that the health officer be given power to enforce the state laws in regard to milk and will also prohibit certain rules as to the method of handling milk, which must be followed by dairymen distributing milk in the city.

The main complaint made is that milk soured too quickly. Milk purchased one day and kept on ice over night is soured the next morning. Under such conditions it should keep sweet longer even in the hottest weather and souring so soon indicates the presence of unclean or diseased milk.

Under the revised statutes the dairy and food commissioner is given power to issue orders to dairymen to enforce the state laws in regard to milk and will also prohibit certain rules as to the method of handling milk, which must be followed by dairymen distributing milk in the city.

The city health officer has no power however to enforce these state laws and the ordinance to be asked will give some power to him to investigate and remedy improper conditions if any such are found.

HAVE CHANGED DATE OF THE BIG PICNIC

Atton Woodmen Set Picnic for August 20th on Account of Coming Harvest.

Atton, Aug. 13.—Wise men change their minds and so do wise Woodmen camps. As Atton Camp No. 292 is in this class it has changed its mind in regard to the holding of the big annual picnic, and has decided to hold the gathering Thursday, August 20th, instead of one week later, as originally planned. It was thought advisable to change the date on account of prospective tobacco harvest and so the various committees are at work arranging for the big event next week. The following committees were named last Saturday evening to have charge of the arrangements: General committee—John Brinkman, G. S. Oils, August Engelle, C. H. Grifen, W. R. Klinger, grounds—W. J. Miller, A. W. Stark, day attendants—James Antkowiak, Dick Brinkman, P. C. Miller, R. B. Humphrey, Herman Holzapfel. It is hoped to have some good music at the grounds and negotiations are under way at this writing looking to the securing of a musical organization for the afternoon. A ball game between married and unmarried Woodmen is one feature scheduled for the afternoon program and other games are planned that will insure an enjoyable time for those in attendance. Remember the date and come with lunch baskets well filled, to spend a pleasant day with the Woodmen.

HONOR FOR THE ATHLETES

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ASKS THEM TO OYSTERS BAY.

He Wishes to Congratulate Olympian Victors—New Records in Exhibition at Queenstown.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 14.—President Roosevelt will undoubtedly be able to gratify the desires, expressed by him in a cablegram to the American commission, at the Olympic games in London, to shake hands with and congratulate each man of the victorious American team.

Secretary to the President Forster said Thursday that the president wrote to the secretary of the Olympic athletes' reception committee in New York that while he would not be able to go to New York on August 29 to attend the reception of the athletes, he hoped to have them all at Sagamore Hill. The president's letter said:

"My dear sir: I have been very glad to have been named honorary president of the American Olympic reception, but it will not be possible for me to go to the city of New York to attend the reception. If the members of the team can come out to Oyster Bay I shall be sincerely glad to see them here at my house and greet them in person. Sincerely yours, Theodore Roosevelt."

It is believed that soon after their great welcome by New York city the athletes will come in a body to Oyster Bay.

Queenstown, Aug. 14.—Prior to sailing for New York, several of the athletes who recently completed in the Olympic games at London gave an exhibition on the promenade quay here Thursday night and in each of the events established new records. Ralph Rose of San Francisco put the 10-pound shot 51 feet 1 1/2 inches. Walsh of Canada threw the 56-pound weight for height 16 feet 3 1/2 inches; and John Flanagan, Irish-American athlete club, threw the 56-pound weight 39 feet 3 inches.

MR. BRYAN'S SPEECH

"Mr. Taft put practically everything that he had to say in accepting his nomination for president into one speech. Mr. Bryan adopts another plan. He delivered yesterday to the committee of notification at Lincoln a preliminary speech of acceptance. This had the merit of comparative brevity, but also the defect of incompleteness, for Mr. Bryan announced that he intended to discuss the other issues of the campaign in addresses which he is to deliver later. The present deliverance therefore must be regarded as merely the first installment of a serial story," says the Wall Street Journal.

"It would not be fair perhaps to pass final judgment upon Mr. Bryan's statement before the series is completed. Judging, however, from his first installment he has nothing very new or convincing to say.

"Mr. Bryan's Lincoln speech displays his characteristic talent for political controversy. It is in part exceedingly clever, and there is undoubtedly a certain vote getting effectiveness in some of his utterances.

"It must be confessed, however, that there is something lacking in the address. Mr. Bryan is never so effective and never so brilliant as when in the full employment of his powers of rhetoric. It is necessary for him to say striking things in a magnificent style, or else appear tame and ineffective. Somehow or other his Lincoln utterance has the effect of an anti-climax.

"Perhaps this is due to the fact that Mr. Bryan, like Mr. Taft, is confronted with a political situation in which he feels under the necessity of making a statement of his views that will in large measure meet the demands of eastern conservatism and the demands of western radicalism. Mr. Taft was able to do this by taking a course that lay somewhat between the two extremes. Mr. Taft could do this with dignity and with power, because he could speak as the representative of the country as a whole, rather than of any section thereof, and he could treat of the issues of the campaign from a national rather than from a sectional or class standpoint.

"But Mr. Bryan, so far as he attempts to follow in Mr. Taft's footsteps in this respect, fails because what was dignified and powerful in Mr. Taft's case appears small and ineffective in Mr. Bryan's case.

"The fact is that Mr. Bryan poses, and has posed for many years, as the representative of the one class, and practically of one section, of the country. He has sought to be the leader of the farmer and the laborer as against the merchant, the investor and the banker, and with this record behind him he does not appear with advantage in any attempt to discuss national questions in a broad, national spirit.

"Therefore, Mr. Bryan's speech of acceptance lacks impressiveness, depth and breadth. However clever and plausible it may be, it does not make an impressive appeal to a thoughtful people. Undoubtedly he makes some good campaign points against Mr.

Taft and the republican party. His allegation, however, that the republican party has done nothing for the protection of the people against 'known abuses' will hardly convince those voters who remember what has been done by President Roosevelt in the past six years, who remember how the republican party has in the main, notwithstanding strong opposition from within the ranks, supported him, and how that same party has nominated as its successor the candidate who most closely represents his views.

"Nor is Mr. Bryan especially convincing when he declares that the democratic party under his leadership seeks not revolution, but reformation, and that it does not aim at the annihilation of all corporations.

"It is a fact which cannot be disputed that Mr. Bryan in all his public utterances during the past twelve years has been a determined critic of the modern system of carrying on the trade and finance of the world. His protest has been against banks, exchanges and corporations, and, while he is careful to assert that he is only dealing with abuses, yet he seeks to remove abuses by such measures as would strike at the heart of the business organization itself, and, by destroying that, vitally injure the interests of the farming and laboring classes, which he affects to represent, whose interests are really promoted by the prosperity of the transportation class. Whether he thinks so or not, he is in fact a revolutionist rather than an evolutionist. It is fair to describe him as a Jacobin in American politics.

"His speech does not measure up to the standard of a successful campaigner. Wall street paid scarcely any attention to it."

"This is the way in which the organs of the financiers of the country view the Nebraskaan's candidacy for the presidency. In 1896 his speech was watched and waited for with eagerness, now it does not cause a ripple. Leading democratic politicians of the south even assert that many of the former solid Bourbon democratic states will be found in the republican columns after the November election.

NOLAN'S CANDIDACY

While many of the papers throughout the first congressional district have attempted to belittle the candidacy of Thos. S. Nolan for the congressional nomination they are devoting considerable space to his campaign, showing that they are afraid of him. The activity of the postmasters in both Rock and Walworth counties is an evidence of the campaign that is being waged throughout the district. The bitter stinging disapproval of the ardent Cooper followers is making friends for the Janesville man rather than doing him an injury. Mr. Nolan is making an exceptional campaign throughout the entire district. While his combings and golings are not heralded by brass bands he is meeting and discussing the situation with thousands of voters and the results on primary day will show that there comes a time in every politician's life when his actions of the past can not be allowed to stand unpunished.

STEPHENSON'S BOOM

It would appear that the voters of the state are waking up to the fact that the Senatorial campaign is not one of mere bluff, but of stern reality. The Hutton managers have claimed the support of Senator La Follette for their candidate. The McGovern campaign has made equal claims and McGovern himself stands on the stump and announces he has the support of the senior Wisconsin Senator. Cook has made a call upon the old soldiers and the former conservatives for their support regardless of the fact he did not serve but a few months in the army during the civil war and that at the period of inactivity, and that he deserted the so-called conservative cause in 1904 when prospects were most bright for his election as governor. When it comes down to summing up the situation Isaac Stephenson appears to the voters as the man of the four to be selected. Of the rugged Philites Sawyer type he has lived his life in the state and has done much to promote its interests. His republicanism can not be doubted and his attitude at critical periods during the last session of congress has met the approval of the republican leaders the nation over. It is safe to say that the voters of Rock county will consider these things when asked to pass judgment on his candidacy at the primaries and his majority in the county will only be slightly behind that to be given Taft in the November election.

FINAL DAYS

The final days of the primary contests are coming to a close. The candidates are working to their utmost to bring about the desired nominations. In the state at large the senatorial fight is the most spectacular, while each congressional district has its contest.

In Rock county Senator Whitehead is practically secure in his contest for re-nomination and will be returned to the state senate with a rousing majority to be of further use to the state and district.

In the first assembly district L. J. Whitte is making friends in the campaign for the assembly. Mr. Whitte is a young man of exceptional business ability and his nomination and election to the assembly would be of value to both the state and county.

In the second assembly district Grant U. Fisher practically has the field to himself. His nomination is assured and in his election the district will have an earnest worker whose opinion will have weight with the legislature.

Then comes the county officers. The contest for sheriff, between Ransom and Scheibel and Merrill is most spirited. Ransom has the advantage in having made the run two years ago and is better known to the voters of the county at large.

Then comes the district attorney battle between John L. Fisher and Charles Hemmingsway. Both men have the advantages of having made previous campaigns—Fisher for district attorney and Hemmingsway for county superintendent, which office he now holds. It has become a personal inter contest much to be deplored.

The county treasurership is the next contest of importance with Powers, Church and Woodruff in the field and all of them making strenuous campaigns.

Taking it all in all the primary is of interest to every republican in the county and the results will be most eagerly watched.

The drowning of the four Chicago summer visitors at the Delta yesterday by their launch being sunk by the wash of the steamer might be repeated on Rock river when some of the small craft get into the wash of the speed launches that race up and down the river regardless of the rights of other boats.

Taft says he is most pleased with Whitehead's management of the campaign thus far. This is reassuring, as the democratic anti-Taft press would have us believe there was a serious friction between the candidate and his campaign management.

There is another big load off our minds—Bryan has accepted. The next two doubtful issues are: Will Sherman and Kern also agree to be full-enders on the tickets?

So Bryan says the big stick will be unknown in term of office as president. Well, that was a safe proposition, for he will never get there.

It is safe to say that Lincoln is too proud of its first citizen to allow him to go to Washington and make his home even for four years.

TAFT NOT READY TO ANSWER BRYAN

MAKES NO COMMENT ON SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE.

HE NEEDS LARGER HORSE

Was Thrown Recently by His Steed—Hepburn Reports on Conditions in Iowa—Bryan Gets Many Invitations.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 14.—No comment for publication in the newspapers on the acceptance speech of W. J. Bryan is to be made at present by W. H. Taft. This decision was announced by the Republican candidate Thursday before he had opportunity to read the Bryan speech.

This morning, he said, he wished to do with great deliberation and should its perusal make a reply necessary or advisable, it will be made the subject of a speech or included in a speech Mr. Taft may make at some future time. His next speech will be delivered here a week from next Friday to a gathering of Virginia Republicans who are coming to the mountains for a general rally.

Taft Thrown from Horse.

Through an erroneous newspaper item from the south, to the effect that Mr. Taft had bought a horse, it was learned here Thursday that while riding with Gen. Corbin last week when a 16-mile ride was accomplished, the big saddle horse which Mr. Taft has ridden for some time in Washington and which he brought here, suddenly developed ankle weakness and Mr. Taft was thrown. He sustained no injury and made no mention of the occurrence. But he admitted that he believed he would be more comfortable hereafter on a horse of sturdier build. Gen. Clarence L. Edwards, chief of the insular bureau of the war department, is on the lookout for such a horse, with authority to make a purchase when found.

Hepburn Tells of Iowa Prospects. Representative W. P. Hepburn of Iowa, who at the request of Speaker Cannon, is to spend most of his time in the east this summer, giving personal attention to the construction of the new office building, is here for a day or two. He has just returned from Iowa and is in a position to give Mr. Taft first hand information on the situation in his state, particularly with reference to the changed conditions brought about by the death of Senator Allison.

It is understood here that former Congressman John F. Lacey and Gov. Cummins will eventually be the opposing candidates for the senatorial vacancy. For the present Col. Hepburn regarded a public discussion of the situation from him as inappropriate, although he predicted the state would give Taft a plurality of 80,000.

Many Places Invite Bryan. Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 14.—Invitations to visit, various sections of the country and deliver speeches came thick and fast upon William Jennings Bryan Thursday. California's request for a visit again was pressed upon him by Charles Edelman of San Francisco, with the result that the Democratic candidate is giving the matter serious consideration. Readville, Mass., wants him there August 25 to witness the trotting derby, the first event of the kind, it is said, in the United States. Assurances were given that there would be no gambling or pool selling, but as Mr. Bryan on that day will be in Indianapolis, a fact which A. G. Drinkwater, a member of the notification committee, overlooked when extending the invitation, he of course was compelled to decline.

Through Henry C. Clayton and R. H. Walker, Montgomery, Ala., expressed his desire for his presence August 19. Mr. Bryan expressed a desire to again go south, but said that the campaign was too young at this time for him to make any definite announcement as to what his engagements shall be on that date.

Decries the "Big Stick."

A notable incident of the day was the presentation to Mr. Bryan by several hundred farmers from Otse county, Nebraska, of a "big stick" guard, grown in the state. It is about five feet in length and easily might be taken for the original, if there ever was one, which has been so generally caricatured. It bore the inscription "Bully's Big Stick," painted in large black letters. Mr. Bryan, although expressing his thanks for the gift, declared that if elected to the presidency the "big stick" would not be wielded, rather relying on his ability to lead people through their love than to control them through their fears.

Policeman and Prisoner Shot.

Seranton, Pa., Aug. 14.—While Patrolmen Benjamin Gilbert and Thomas Jones were taking a man out of a tenement house on Ninth street, this city, early Friday morning, friends of the prisoner opened fire from windows of the building. One shot struck Jones in the neck. He was taken to a hospital in a dying condition. Another bullet struck the prisoner in the back. He is fatally injured.

J. R. Herod, Former Diplomat, Dead.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—Joseph Roger Herod died here Thursday of gasitidis. He came here three days ago from his country home at New Canaan, Conn. In 1893 he was appointed secretary of the legation at Tokyo and at one time he had charge of the affairs of the United States at Seoul, Korea.

Love Is Hysteria?

A South Norwalk, Conn., dominie is quoted as declaring that "love is hysteria." Of course, it is, but why does the clergyman object to it on that account? It is not only hysteria, but it is a high fever, a cold chill, nervous prostration and acute neurasthenia, alternately. There's what makes it interesting, and in any event, desirable. —New York Morning Telegraph.

HEAD OF MILWAUKEE
PHONE CO. IN SUIT

Says It is an Effort to Embarrass Concern—Richard Valentine Left for Metropolis This Noon.

The removed President Critchfield of the Milwaukee Independent Telephone Co. and an accounting of $85,000, alleged to have been entrusted to him as president, is asked in a suit brought by Clifford Arlick of Marion, Indiana, a stockholder. Arlick charges a breach of contract with him by Mr. Critchfield and violations of law in contracts for construction work and the sale of stock. He says that but $20,000 of the $85,000 paid over to Mr. Critchfield was expended for construction and that the balance was used in securing the franchise of Nov. 12, 1906, and in securing favorable legislation by the legislature of 1907, which was unaccounted for. Critchfield believes the suit to have been inspired by the Bell Telephone Co. to embarrass his concern and says that the complaint was drawn up with little regard for facts. He also asserts that Arlick, more than a year ago, demanded $25,000, or, as an alternative, in his own language threatened to "raise hell." All who have a right to know what was done have full knowledge and have approved it, according to the president. Richard Valentine of this city, who is one of the stockholders in the concern and a friend of President Critchfield, left this noon for Metropolis, where he is to depart for a camping trip in the vicinity of Mercer. Whether or not his trip to the Metropolis was prompted by the threatened lawsuit against Mr. Critchfield could not be learned.

C. H. Weirick for Register of Deeds. The services of a man with six years' experience in this important office ought to be valuable to every taxpayer in Rock County.

If you believe this to be true, I respectfully solicit your support for re-nomination at the September Primary election.

I wish to thank all those who have so generously aided me, and to say further that my official duties prevent my making a personal canvass of the voters, which I deeply regret.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Aug. 14, 1868.—Runaway—A team with a load of lumber standing on east Milwaukee street, started on a run this forenoon but were stopped before any damage was done.

Fire.—The residence of Mr. Z. Curtis, No. 28 Bluff street, was discovered to be on fire about noon today, and the alarm promptly sounded. Had it not been for the immediate assistance of a bucket of water, the entire building would have been enveloped in flames before the arrival of the engines. No serious damage was done. A portion of the roof and rear end of the building were burned, and the siding and shingles in close proximity to the flames cut away to allow free passage of a stream of water. The fire caught from a stove pipe used in lieu of a chimney, a most successful appliance for firing wooden roofs. The building and furniture were fully insured and the loss from fire and water will not exceed two hundred dollars.

The excitement occasioned by the fire was doubtless the cause of the accident. Misfortunes never come singly.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The services over the remains of Thad. Stevens took place this morning after which they were escorted by a procession to the Baltimore depot, whence they left for Lancaster. Large crowds of people viewed the remains last night and this morning.

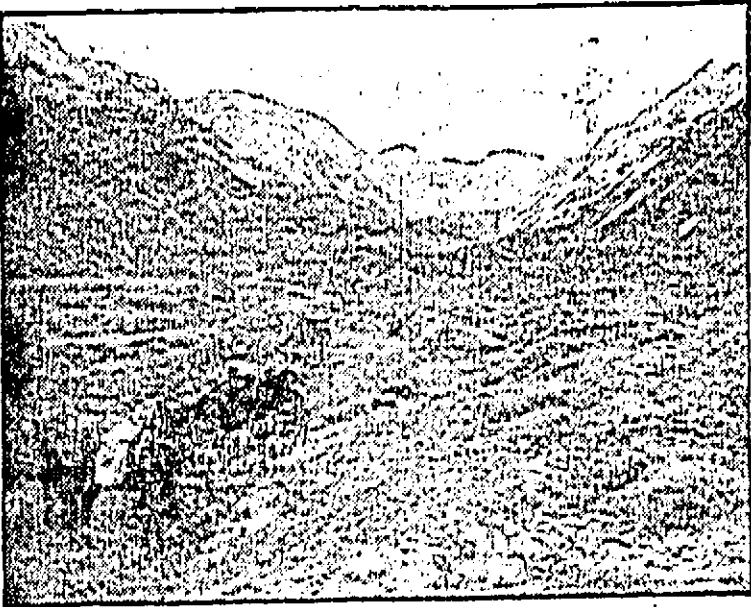

Stevens died at Washington on Tuesday night in his 76th year. He was a native of Vermont, graduating from Dartmouth college when twenty one years old. Soon afterward he removed to Pennsylvania, where he practiced law. In 1848 he was elected to congress and from that time until his death, with but a brief interval, he has been an active working member of that body.

Mr. Stevens made himself particularly prominent by his labors for the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, using his utmost endeavors to urge the house to bring the impeachment into some practical shape, but with no success.

Why Not Harvest Corn With Machines

The work is only half done when the corn is grown. That first half of the work, planting and cultivating, has been done by apt-to-hate machines.

Why not use the equally efficient machines now manufactured for harvesting the corn?

Time is just as important when it comes to corn harvesting as it is in wheat harvesting. If you are going to get the full value out of the fodder.

Don't treat the fodder as of little value. It contains two-fifths of the value of the entire crop—nearly as valuable as the corn stalks. That is, you can make it worth that much by harvesting it at the right time and handling it right.

And you have only a few days to do the work. You must not begin too soon, nor delay too long. You must cut and shock the corn quickly just when the ears are beginning to glaze in order to save the sweet, nutritious juices, (the starch, sugar and protein elements) that are in them in the stalks, pith and blades.

If you have more than a few acres of corn, you cannot possibly harvest it by hand within that limited time, unless you have a big force of helpers. And you don't need to be told that farm labor is expensive and hard to get.

There is no necessity of looking for extra help and paying high wages. A Deering, McCormick, Milwaukee or Chicago corn binder will do the work quicker and better than a force of a half dozen men. The machine will cut and bind the corn and drop the bundles in piles all ready for shocking.

Only one man and a team is required to operate it. To get the whole value out of the fodder, it must be shocked. That reduces it to the condition of hay, so that the stock will eat and digest it all. A Deering, McCormick or Plano binder and shredder does this work perfectly and makes the corn at the same time.

All these machines have been tested by years of service. Thousands of them are at work each season. They have been proven to be perfectly adapted to their work, saving time, labor and giving a greatly increased value to the corn crop.

I will be glad to furnish catalog and all information. Call and talk the matter over.

CHAPTER XXIII.

GRAYDON was the disappointment of Major March and his men when they found that neither Aguilado nor Pilar had fallen into their hands. Although they had come just in time to prevent the complete annihilation of the little company, the leaders had escaped with the remnants of their surprised forces. Scores of Filipinos were captured, dozens were killed and wounded. Eight of the dashing scouts who went out with Jerry Connell gave up their lives in exchange for the final victory.

A small guard was left at the convent to care for the wounded, the bulk of the command hurrying off at dawn to search for the routed Filipinos. Graydon Bannemer was put in charge of the convent guard, a surgeon and the application of "first aid to the injured" principles soon transformed the convent into a well arranged hospital. Uncle Sam's benevolence was also cheerfully extended to the wounded Filipinos. The days of the "water cure" and "ungodly butchery" had not yet come.

Young Velasquez died soon after daybreak. He had been dying for days. His sister's grief was pathetic in the extreme—aye, demoralizing, for it struck deep into the hearts of soldiers who had scoffed at the lifeblood of man, but could not brave the tears of a woman.

Bannemer did all in his power to comfort and console her. It was to him that she clung in her despair. He had been her captor, and yet it had been he who stood forth in his light to defend her and the loved one who was dead. At nightfall the dead were buried in that far off wilderness, their humble graves marked and recorded before the time when the government could come to give other graves in other lands to those who had given their lives. Velasquez was laid beside the Americans. Teresa, a shivering, sobbing little figure in the garb of an infant soldier, was supported by big Graydon Bannemer. There was no service except the short army ritual; there was no priest or pastor; there was but one red mourner—a pretty, heart broken girl who lay for hours beside the rifle mound on the hillside.

Word came back at nightfall that the detachments were to form a junction at one of the big villages westward in two days. The instructions were that the wounded Filipinos should be left in the village, where native women and doctors would care for them.

"What in thunder are we to do with the girl?" was the question that came from the officer in command. More than one man scratched his head thoughtfully and looked toward the disturbing element that had come into the army. She was sitting alone and disconsolate in front of the church.

"There's no way to send her back to her friends, and we can't leave her here," said Bannemer.

"But, gee whizz! We can't take her on a like this," protested the sergeant. "She'll be in the way, and she'll give out, and all that. Besides, what would we do with a woman around all the time?"

"I fancy she can take care of herself," said Graydon. "Major March wouldn't expect us to leave her behind. That would be heartless."

PROCTER & GAMBLE
P&G
NAPHTHA SOAP

Please Read This Letter.

It is from a Brooklyn woman who uses P. & G. Naphtha Soap.

"I cannot express my thanks for the introduction of this valuable soap. It is miraculous. It formerly took me almost all day Monday to wash. Now, I am entirely through by eleven o'clock. I cannot tell you how much easier my work is. I talk of it to all my friends and feel I should like all housekeepers in our city who wash so hard with other soaps to know of this wonderful soap."

Note particularly the statement: "I am entirely through by eleven o'clock."

Are you through then? You should be. You will be, if you use P. & G. Naphtha Soap.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is for sale in almost every grocery in this city.

The price is 5 cents a cake.

By the time the party and guides were ready to start on their forced march the opinion unanimously expressed was that Teresa Velasquez should go forward also, come what might. She had pleaded so hard and so effectually that the men were fairly swept off their feet in a storm of sympathy.

"If she gives out we'll carry her!" roared a deeply impressed young man with long red whiskers.

"And when we get up to the command we'll make them demand correspondents take turn about walking, so she can ride a pony all the time. They've got no business ridin' any-how."

And so with rosy confidence in the fitness of things and a just belief in the charity of Major March, the detachment marched out into the hills, the ward of the company trailing bravely beside the tall and envied Mr. Bannemer, who, by the way, added from being politely attentive, did not exhibit any undue signs of exaltation.

The presence of a woman—and a very pretty one at that, with a sadness in her eyes that was appealing—served only to send his thoughts bounding back to the girl he had left behind. He grew more and more morose and silent as the day wore on. At times the tired, lonely girl at his side lagged and cast wondering, piteous glances at him. Her woman's intuition told her that this man did not belong where he was. It told her also that he had a secret and that one of her sex was deeply involved.

The events of the next two weeks are of small consequence in this narrative, which deals not so much with the history and mystery of the campaign in the fall of '08 as with the welfare and emotions of a single soldier at the front. Aguilado and Pilar had become refugees by this time, hunted and hounded from place to place with relentless fervor. Pilar was somewhere in the hills with his men, the pride of the insurgent forces; Aguilado's remnant had scurried off in another direction, and General Tono was on the coast with what was left of the scattered force.

The hot about Gregorio del Pilar was being drawn in and tightened. The closing week in November saw him driven to the last extremity. The tragedy of the fall was near at hand.

Teresa Velasquez never faltered, never tired. She proved herself to be no incubus. Day after day the officer in command expected the expedition which would take her back to Manila. Teresa came up from the south, but none were ready to go back.

She was an inspiration to the camp. Men who had forgotten their manners completely brushed them up and danced attendance upon the girl in the Philippine uniform.

Every man prayed for opportunity to do brave deeds, and when chance came she was permitted to witness heroism that savored of the boyhood melody known as "showing off."

The reserved but considerate Bannemer was her closest friend and confidant. One evening as they sat side by side watching the preparations for supper she turned suddenly and announced that she knew he was dying of love for some one. He started, and his hand trembled.

"Tell me about her," she commanded. "There was a playmate, a girl compelling force in this girl that grief and hardship had not been strong enough to conquer."

"Someone," said Graydon. "Why do you think that of me?"

"Because everybody else thinks it," she said, "and because I am a very young person. The men are not so charitable as I, senior. They say that you joined the army because of some woman whom you could not marry. I agree with them, except that it is she who would not marry you. Pardon me if I have hurt you?"

Impulsively she put her hand upon his, her dark eyes full of pleading. The touch of her hand did not send a thrill through him. Such contact, however, caused the blood to tingle in the quick veins of the girl. He merely sat and stared into space. After a moment she drew her hand away.

"I am sorry," she said.

"There is a girl, Teresa," he said shortly.

"Yes, I know. Tell me about her."

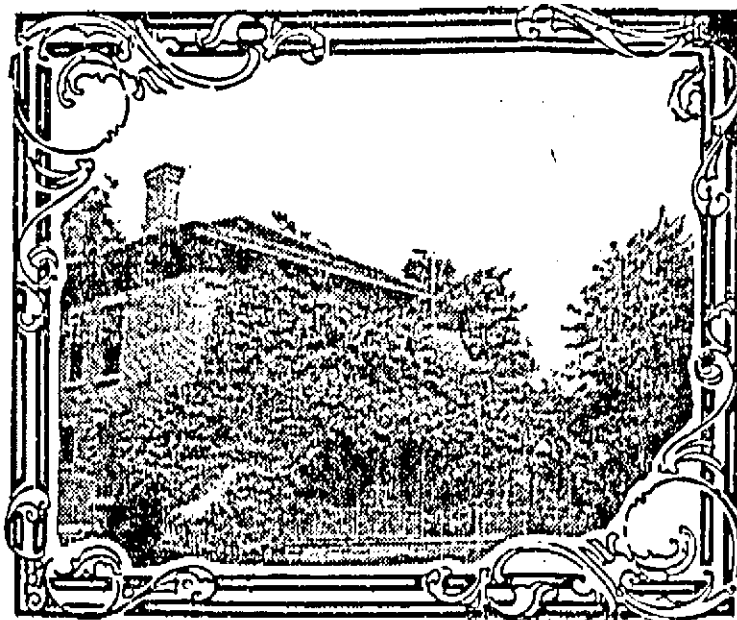

"I can't," he exclaimed bitterly. He arose and walked quickly away. Teresa's dark eyes followed him in pity and wonder—aye, affection. Then she shook her head sadly and turned her attention elsewhere—not piqued, much to her own amazement.

Re-enforcements came up two days later with the word that the command in chief expected the campaign against Pilar to end within a week and that hard fighting was ahead. The Red Cross people were following hard upon the heels of the regiment, and field hospitals were to be established.

Every man in the band of newcomers was singing the praises of a wonderfully beautiful Red Cross nurse. The stories told of her charms were varied, but none lacked enthusiasm. Some said she was the daughter of a rich magnate come to do service in the cause of humanity; others were sure she was a great and beautiful actress who was sacrificing everything to conspicuous advertising. All, however, were agreed in the praise of her noble beauty.

The little detachment on guard turned up its collective nose and proudly pointed to Teresa Velasquez.

"Look at that," said Bob Spurrier.

SENATOR R. M. LaFOLLETTE.

VISIT TO THE SUMMER HOME OF SENATOR R. M. LaFOLLETTE.
Madison, Wis.—The LaFollette family home is at Maple Bluff, three miles outside of Madison, on high ground overlooking Lake Mendota and the city. It is an old-fashioned brick house, built a generation ago, and now covered with vines, making one of the coolest retreats in the neighborhood of the capital city. Here the senator holds his political conferences with his friends; here in a large library seated in an armchair the senator works over his speeches. His addresses are not of the kind, although he uses few notes. St. Charles are gathered with the greatest care but he has the happy faculty of putting them in such a manner that "dry facts" appeal to his audience. Here on the farm of 30 acres, with Shetland ponies and an orchard, the family enjoy their summers.

Every morning Mrs. LaFollette,

"Gail" she stuck "up" with the "flying queen" (her girl is real quality. She's no common American. She's a grandee's daughter. There's royal blood in her. By thunder, gentlemen, she's blood kin to little Alfonso). Teresa sought shelter from the curious though admiring eyes of the fresh arrivals.

"I don't like these new soldiers," she complained to Graydon. "I wish they had not come. They talk of this beautiful nurse, and they laugh at me. Oh, I wish I had something else to wear."

"Don't worry, little girl; you're worth ten nurses," said he.

"Alas, though I am dressed as a nun, I do not feel as bold as one," she lamented.

The next day re-enforcements came up, and the whole command advanced upon the pass, where Pilar, at last, had been cornered. On the 21 of December a desperate conflict took place. Pilar was entrenched in the pass near the celebrated rock known as El Oshapo, "the Bishop." His resistance for a time was valorous and deadly. Corporal Perry saw him mount his horse behind the barricade 600 yards away. Perry was the best marksman in the regiment and, turning to his chief officer, asked if he should take a shot at him.

He fired, and Pilar fell, face downward, and the Americans crashed the little band of insurgents. Gregorio del Pilar was dead. His death in the great hills, after a most courageous battle against an overwhelming force, brought to an end a life that would have been worth much to the islands in after years. In his pockets were found valuable papers, letters and keepsakes.

The letters were from his sweetheart, Dolores Jose, who lived at Baguio, and they were tender in the extreme. Her lace handkerchief rested over his heart.

When the Americans, victorious and jubilant, fell back to camp, they had no small number of wounded to turn over to the tender mercies of the little company of Red Cross nurses and the surgeons.

One of the most dangerously injured was Graydon Bannemer. He was one of the first to cross the danger line. A bullet had found a distant hill tore through his side, leaving an ugly, gaping wound that foretold certain death.

generally accompanied by her oldest son, Robert, and occasionally by a horse back rider for an hour or more. When the senator is home he is driven to the city by "Little Bob," who whips the two Shetlands into line with the ability of a veteran teamster.

At home or in his law office in the city Senator LaFollette is one of the busiest men in the country. His office waiting room is always crowded with callers, and the senator behind closed doors is often compelled to make them wait, while he dictates hurried letters or maps out some political plan which are to be carried out, after he has left the city, by his law partner and other advisers. His neighbors seldom know when he is coming home or when he is

MODERN CAMPAIGNING—A SUGGESTION FOR THE POLITICAL MANAGERS OF THE VARIOUS CANDIDATES.

Drop a penny in the slot and hear and see your favorite candidate.

William Howard Taft delivering his speech of acceptance in Cincinnati.

Drop a penny in the slot and hear a Bryan argument.

All these and many more are the signs which are prophesied to adorn the penny arcade of the future, especially during campaign seasons. The suggestion was originated by the Democratic managers in behalf of Nominations Bryan. Already "canned orators" are on sale at one cent per argument in many places in Chicago and the west. A more practical way of handling this would be the nomination in action to the accompaniment of his own speech, could be had. This would be of great benefit not only in advertising the candidate but in enlightening the world and sharing with the poor man the benefits of famous speeches. Upon Mr. Bryan's own statement he was paid $500 by two so-called "talking machine" concerns for a speech delivered into the phonograph at Fairview last week. This sum he has turned over to the campaign committee. So far other nominees have not gone on record in the phonographs or before the picture machines but in line with modern campaigning methods and Yankee ingenuity it does not require a great stretch of the imagination to conceive political campaigns carried on in this way.

Mr. Taft has several times stated he did not want this to be a campaign of imitations. So far Frank Hitchcock has been equal to the occasion in springing new moves on the other managers but the Democrats have the jump on Mr. Hitchcock in introducing this novelty to spread Mr. Bryan's fame. It is suggested, too, that campaign songs be introduced into the phonographs so that all may become familiar with them. One song which is on tap already is "What I Would Have Done Had I Got There Before" and the tale of the mighty deeds that would have crowned the speech had the commoner been elected on previous campaigns. All are enigmas to the master of Fairview.

It is hard to go into detail about the many good things we offer in our ready-to-wear garments, but we know that if you are at all interested and have not seen our garments that it will surely pay you to do so.

WRIGHT AEROPLANE COMES TO GRIEF

INVENTOR TRIES NEW METHOD OF DESCENT AT LE MANS.

FRAME OF MACHINE TORN

Accident, Following Some Remarkable Flights, Is Not Considered Serious by the Aeronaut from America.

Le Mans, France, Aug. 14.—The Wright aeroplane suffered an accident Thursday which will require several days and possibly a week to repair.

After two superb flights Wilbur Wright essayed a new and daring method of descent. He stopped the motor at a height of 75 feet and tried to come to earth on a gradual descending glide. The calculations were not absolutely correct and the left wing of the aeroplane came in contact with the ground. This tore the frame of the machine. Mr. Wright was not injured.

Says Accident Is Not Serious. Mr. Wright said he did not regard the accident as serious, and explained that there were only incidental experiences devoted to acquiring complete mastery of the difficulties of aviation and the execution of new maneuvers.

Mr. Wright's first flight Thursday eclipsed all his former efforts. He made seven complete tours of the field over the tops of the trees. According to the official time he was in the air eight minutes and 53 seconds. The aeroplane was incummodated by a 15-mile breeze, but in spite of this he showed greater facility in maneuvering than he did when there was a dead calm. His landing was easy and successful in every way.

Second Flight Is Novel. Mr. Wright's second flight, which lasted two minutes, was a novel one. The aeroplane soared and descended at will, executing bewildering turns. Suddenly, as viewed from the grandstand, the machine lost its speed and began curving slowly toward the earth. All appeared to be going well until it was tilted to leeward and the delicate framework struck the ground, with the result that it was damaged and torn.

Mr. Wright calmly stepped out and examined the wreck. He was quickly surrounded by anxious friends, to whom he explained that there had been no accident in the air, but that he had merely decided to try a new descent. He shut off the motor at a height of 75 feet and endeavored to float downward.
